LEWIS LOSES CONTROL OF MINERS' CONVENTION

Big Auditorium Is Too Small For Lenin Meet

NICOLAI LENIN MEMORIAL IS HUGE AFFAIR

Every Hall in the Great Ashland Auditorium Filled

Chicago workers filled every hall in Ashland Auditorium last night, jammed the hallways, overflowed into the streets and in the monster Lenin memorial meeting, under the auspices of the Workers Party of America, showed that the death of the great leader and teacher of the working class, even the fore-shadows by many months of illness, has come as a shock to thousands of Chicago toilers.

The stage of the auditorium was a mass of red cushions, and streamers. They filled the platform and had to be moved so the Swedish Singing Society, the International, the speakers could appear.

Moving pictures of Lenin in action and a reproduction of the first page of the DAILY WORKER carrying the news of his death were shown. The great mass of spectators were of two minds. It wanted to applaud Lenin's picture and the new fighting daily paper of the workers but it felt that the majority of the audience prohibited such a demonstration, but as the speakers began to denounce the managers of Lenin and the Third International, the audience showed of all restraint and about the building with their manifestations of approval.

The Young Workers League was much in evidence. Its members took charge of the overflow meetings and held the DAILY WORKER. Mary Aherm, its secretary, delivered three speeches to as many meetings and during the hour it required for the great crowd to leave the building, she took applications of adults for Workers Party of girls and boys for their own organization.

International in Character. The international character of the meeting was evident when Arno Swabeck, district organizer for the Workers Party, announced that speeches would be made in Russian and Italian as well as English. Following these speakers Mary Aherm spoke for ten minutes on what Lenin had done for the young workers of the world.

Lovett Fort Whiteman paid a tribute to Lenin on behalf of the negro workers.

Robert Miner, editor of the Liberator, spoke of the love of Lenin for the children and of his interest in the workers problems. He was never too tired or busy, said Miner, to hear the views of workers, peasants and all the humble toilers of great Russia.

William F. Dunne, labor editor of the DAILY WORKER, spoke for ten minutes on the tasks of the Communist movement and the new burden and responsibility placed upon him by the death of Nicolai Lenin.

William Z. Foster spoke on Lenin as the thinker, man of action and the strategist of the revolutionary movement. He stressed the point that

Borah Says Teapot Scandal Has Halted Attack on Soviet Russia

WASHINGTON.—Samuel Gompers came, with his personal and official staff of soviet-smashers, but he was not heard. Senator Borah did not call the international relations together with Senator Swanson and Senator Pepper, his associates in the inquiry, and with Mr. Gompers. Presently Borah announced that because the Senate was about to start, the Russian hearings would be suspended for a time.

Then Mr. Gompers stated that he was ready, then or later, but there was no need for hurried action by Borah's

The convention was primarily called for the purpose of nominating Ford.

Eighteen delegates, representing as many states, were in their seats when Temporary Chairman Ray Harrop, Omaha, called the meeting to order.

Miners Sing While Lewis Rages

By JOHN FITZGERALD.

TOMLINSON HALL, INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 30.—The United Mine Workers' convention adjourned at five o'clock tonight in disorder after President John L. Lewis had lost complete control and had provoked the greatest outburst of indignation yet seen here.

The outbreak occurred when a minority vote on a resolution providing that large locals should be allowed one delegate for each one hundred members was announced as supporting the report of the constitution committee. The vote as counted by the Lewis tellers was 785 for the committee and 692 against.

There was an avalanche of shouts for a roll call. On the show of hands for a roll call the tellers counted three votes short of the necessary number. The convention was on its feet and had broken into a riot.

Cries of "recount" and "give us a square deal" came from all parts of the hall. The chairman gavelled for order but without any effect. A delegate from Pennsylvania was assaulted by a sergeant-at-arms, delegates stood on their chairs and for the platform. Lewis stood smoking a cigar and called on Van Bitter to continue the report, but he could not be heard.

Supporters called for Van Bitter to go on and yelled "Put it over."

Shouts for a roll call continued. Lewis shouted, "You may roll it up, but you may not roll it up in the hall." Officials of Districts are now fighting Lewis on the issue of representation. The tellers called for Van Bitter to go on and yelled "Put it over."

The delegates then began to sing and sang until 5 P. M., when Lewis adjourned the convention adjourned. The convention lasted more than an hour of the day.

Administration Rocked By Progressive Showing

TOMLINSON HALL, INDIANAPOLIS, Indiana.—By allowing paid organizers to vote in the convention of the constitution, the Lewis Machine defeated the resolution to deprive the president of appointive power by the narrow margin of 157 votes. The official count shows a still smaller majority.

The total as checked up by the administration tellers is 2,106 for the resolution, 2,363 against.

Immediately after the announcement of the vote, following the adjournment recess, Delegate Tobey of District 5 submitted the following motion:

"Inasmuch as in the roll call vote taken upon the question of depriving the international president of the power to appoint organizers, field workers and others, there were many who voted who were not entitled to vote under the terms of the constitution, therefore, there shall be a committee of five elected from the floor to check up on the vote taken with the records of the organization so that all votes illegitimate may be eliminated from the grand total, and that committee report back to the convention at 10 a. m. as possible."

Lewis decided this motion out of the floor to check up on it to come before the convention.

Invisible Empire Helped. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—With the payroll vote and the invisible empire composed of "loyal" locals whose membership dues are paid by administrators, the Lewis machine was able to carry its motion.

When John L. Lewis invited James J. Davis to the convention of the American Federation of Labor to which he was a delegate, and endorsed the anti-labor acts and utterances of this enemy union movement against whom, in self-defense, its convention was forced to take action.

If the finger-printing and police registration laws against foreign-born workers favored by Davis are passed, John L. Lewis knows that the United Mine Workers of America will be at the mercy of the employers, their spies and their police.

As the rank and file delegates also know this and The Daily Worker hopes that they will make known in a manner that James J. Davis, the enemy of the labor movement, and John L. Lewis, his friend and host, cannot fail to understand, that the suspicion of disloyalty and opposition to the strike-breaking laws proposed by James J. Davis in his capacity as president of the coal operators, the Steel Trust and all the rest of the American capitalist class.

Coal Miners! Do You Know James J. Davis---Foe of Unions and Alien Workers

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE

JAMES J. DAVIS, Secretary of Labor, appointed by President Harding, sponsor of many bills calling for registration and finger-printing of foreign-born workers and supporter of other laws has been invited by President John L. Lewis to address the convention of the United Mine Workers of America now in session in Indianapolis.

The United Mine Workers of America probably has the highest percentage of foreign-born workers of any union in the United States. These foreign-born coal miners are the backbone of the organization, its best fighting material, never found wanting in the struggle against the tyranny, of the coal operators. Dozens of foreign-born workers have been killed by the gunmen of the coal association in Colorado, Pennsylvania and other states in the struggle for the union.

It is no exaggeration to say that the foreign-born coal miners are the foundation on which the structure of the United Mine Workers rests.

To the convention of the organization these foreign-born miners have suffered for, fought for and built, is invited James J. Davis, open and avowed enemy of the foreign-born working-class population and enemy of the entire organized labor movement.

An enemy of the organized labor movement? Yes! And John L. Lewis, who brings him to the miners' convention as his guest, knows that Davis is an enemy of the United Mine Workers and the labor movement of which it is a part.

So dangerous to the labor union is the finger-printing and police registration of alien workers, for the benefit of the corporations, advocated by James J. Davis, that the Portland convention of the American Federation of Labor denounced the Davis plan unequivocally and instructed the executive council to immediately begin to fight with every resource the labor movement could muster against their incorporation in the laws of the land.

In the term "enemy of the labor movement" too strong a term to characterize a secretary of labor who, in dozens of speeches made before chambers of commerce, associations of police chiefs, rotary clubs and other strike-breaking organizations advocates laws that will compel every foreign-born worker to have his picture taken, carry a passport on which it is pasted, have his finger-prints taken and report to the police at stated times?

Could the most cunning agent of the employers devise a better blacklist system that is to be enforced by the government itself?

Could any corporation agent invent a better method of blacklisting all active union men, persecuting them, making strikes impossible and breaking up unions?

Yet this is exactly what James J. Davis, guest of John L. Lewis, proposes. As secretary of labor, he schemes to break up unions instead of protecting them.

He wants to reduce the foreign-born workers to the status of criminals living in constant fear of the police, afraid to call their souls their own. This hang-over of the most corrupt and reactionary government this nation has ever had, himself an immigrant, carrying out the orders of the House of Morgan and have produced the bulk of this nation's wealth, should be branded, tagged and segregated just as were the black slaves for whose freedom the Civil War was fought.

When John L. Lewis, on behalf of his administration, invites James J. Davis to the convention of the United Mine Workers, he gives tacit approval to the Sterling bill and gives measures now before congress containing finger-printing, police registration and deportation provisions.

45,000 JOSE PENNSY JOBS SINCE JULY

December Saw 26,185 Laid
Off Work

More than 45,000 employees of the Pennsylvania railroad have been laid off since July when there were 250,512 on the carriers' pay rolls.

The greatest reduction in any one month came in December when 26,185 were laid off.

Since Dec. 15, 7,856 have been turned out to look for a job at a time when there are considerably more applicants than jobs.

The layoffs in December have hit shop employees particularly hard meaning a reduction of more than 25 per cent in shop operations.

The present payroll of 260,017 is below that of a year ago when the road employed 225,831 workers in all departments.

Reduction in the number of employees is explained by the fact that the business of the road has steadily declined since the middle of 1923. But there are good grounds for believing that the layoffs have been heavier than warranted by reduced business.

For the past several months the road's percentage of operating freight cars has risen from 3.5% in July to 5.4% in November, the latest month for which reports are available.

The Pennsylvania has also allowed its locomotives to go out of service as to endanger the lives of engine crews and passengers. Within the month exact figures express that have been delayed for hours because interstate commerce commission inspectors condemned as unsafe locomotives.

Inspection ordered 50 engines out of service at Port Wayne alone, one of which shows the extent to which an anti-labor management is willing to let its equipment run down in order to add to the winter unemployment.

Such figures indicate the insecurity of a job which will characterize employment so long as absentee owners are considered as having more rights than the men who actually make the road operate. Pennsylvania, the railroad industry, the Pennsylvania, which has talked its way out of the possibility of getting back to the old "partnership" relationship between employer and management since the earliest and most drastic reduction in force.

The night of a man to his job has evidently not been tackled by Attenbury's company union.

Parliamentarians in Germany Grieve Under Fascist Rule

BERLIN. The warm is turning over in the revolution. The political condition of government by military rule is getting to be a matter of the parliamentarians who by military voted away their powers by the state of emergency law.

Now the question has come up in the committee on rules and business of the house and unanimously the members agreed that Solman had a perfect right to speak and that the state of emergency law gives the military no right to prohibit voters meetings.

The committee further decided unanimously to express the opinion to President Ebert and the military to permit the refusal of the military commander in Münster to permit Wilhelm Solman, Socialist deputy and minister of the interior, in the Stresemann cabinet, to address a voters' meeting soon after he had left the cabinet. The action of the military excited considerable comment at the time, but apparently nothing more was done about it.

Daily Worker's Exposures Cause Closing of One School Firetrap; Dangers Lurking in Many Others

THE DAILY WORKER'S exposure of the perils of the school firetraps that house working class children has resulted in the closing of one building—St. Clement's School at 2824 Orchard street—just closed by Mayor Dewey.

This action is calculated to ally public opinion with the widespread investigation which the board of education is conducting, with the aid of other departments, of the conditions in school buildings.

The school is closed as "unsafe" at the very moment the board of education is asserting the policy that there is "no cause for alarm."

Only forty pupils were in the classroom at St. Clement's parochial school when fire inspectors visited it and found fire hazards so great that they ordered the classes dismissed.

Nothing has been done to close public schools which are as bad as St. Clement's, either in terms of fire hazards or in terms of the health of the children.

As an example of what some schools are like, the DAILY WORKER publishes today a description of two schools. One school is in a working class neighborhood and the other is in the "well" Wilson Avenue district.

For the "Best People"

The Stewart school is located at Kenmore Avenue near Broadway in the heart of the Wilson Avenue district. The building is a firetrap, erected in 1904 just as the Wilson Avenue district was being built.

The building stands in the center of a large lot. It is a two-story building with a flat roof. The windows are large and the building is well lighted.

CRONIN'S JURY CORONER'S JURY

ILLINOIS HORROR Laid to Cronin-Clinch Door

JOHN P. CRONIN, City Editor of the Cronin-Clinch Coal company is directly responsible for the deaths of the 18 coal miners in the terrible explosion last Friday.

That is the verdict of the coroner's jury which has been hearing evidence in the case. The verdict corroborates the contention of the DAILY WORKER who led reports of the deaths of 18 miners by the mining company.

Danger signs had been removed from the mine when the explosion occurred, the jury discovered. The explosion was caused by a "lumper" and a fall of coal in an old working.

Witnesses testified the company ignored the hazards which lay in the old workings that so often are accounted for in the deaths of miners.

With the extracting of all the readily mined coal from the workings the company's interest in the mine was at an end. The company's criminal carelessness has been exposed.

ment of the progressives. Desperate efforts were made yesterday by the administration to line up the wavering ones. Delegates were buttonholed and organizers whose meal tickets were at stake could be seen in every corner around the convention hall sweating to convince delegates that they should vote with Lewis. Others could be seen asking delegates to be independent voters to the telegraph office to wire for instructions from home.

It was reported that trains coming into Indianapolis yesterday carried dozens of henchmen, some of whom were armed.

This is believed to sound the death knell of the Farrington machine at the next convention of the Illinois district.

The Nova Scotia delegation cast their entire 59 votes against Lew. Districts 5 and 11 cast a majority against the administration. District 5 is the bailiwick of the Feeneys, Fagans and O'Learys, who have been making war on the progressives and expelling them from

The use of the "bluesy" locution has been so brazen that delegates here would not be surprised if Lewis should utilize the Shennandoah expedition to manufacture a few more around the North Pole.

Davis to Speak

The patriotic Welshman, James Davis, secretary of labor, is scheduled to speak today to the convention.

A committee, including Williams, an alleged progress from Pennsylvania, was appointed by Lewis to escort him from hotel to the hall. A motion to vite the public to the meeting was declared carried against a volute of nays.

According to interviews, Da will congratulate Lewis on receiving the charter of the Nova Scotia miners. He will quote the bible to show that the miners must so

This is a covert attack on progressive elements in the convention, as a majority of the membership is composed of foreign-born workers. There is no word here for Davis from the rank and file.

The Ku Klux Klan held a meeting here the other night and boasted that the coal operators have endorsed the efforts of the Klan.

NEW FILM SHOWS SILENT RUSSIA AT WORK AND PLAY

Showings Will Begin on March First

The third chapter in the motion picture presentation of the history of Soviet Russia will begin its showings shortly after March first. The new series, consisting of five films, will show the life of the Soviet people as it was in the fall of 1923 to American eyes.

The first of these films, "Russia Through the Shadows," showed the bloody days of war and revolution, and the worst period of the 1921 famine. The second, "The Fifth Year," showing the beginning of improvement in conditions and gave, in general, an excellent picture of the major happenings during the year 1923. The third picture, just taken, "Russia and the World," will show the land of the Soviets as it stands in the fall of 1923 to American eyes.

"Shows Reconstruction Work."

The film shows the reconstruction program well on the road to success and delivers its message, not only to the parades and pageants of the everyday life of the workers themselves, but also to the small villages. Industries of all sorts are shown, from smelters and steel mills to factories, cigarette factories, leather works, fisheries and such others, all in the process of operation, proving untrue the ridiculous claims that only one or two cities are being shown.

Nor can the charge that the film presents only "show places" maintained for the benefit of foreign visitors. It holds water in the fact that a great government operated a nation plant on the border of Siberia where it is not far from a freight car and five hours more by train over rough mountain trails to reach.

The promise of regeneration held by Russia's people is shown in the self-governing communities at work and at play. These communities are for the most part, saved from death by American and other friends of Soviet Russia. The Youth Parade on International Youth Day is followed by athletic shows in the city of Leningrad. The annual exhibition is shown with 100,000 visitors from the provinces.

No Note of Sadness.

There is not a note of sadness in the entire Russian section of the film because that was not heard by the cameramen in the city where it was taken. It is otherwise, however, when the German border is reached.

Here are hungry children, and the German army is shown in the kitchen, where the International Workers Relief make use of the German army kitchen to serve Russian food to starving German unemployed. Here we see the workers' guards, the "Armed Hundred" workers' revolt, the Red Army soldiers, the German army, the Reichswehr marching, the German army, the Reichswehr marching, the German army, the Reichswehr marching.

The film is attractive from all angles, and applications for its showing should be sent to the Committee for International Workers' Order, 1715 South Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill.

One of the most encouraging phases of the drive now being conducted in behalf of the Russian workers by the Friends of Soviet Russia and the Workers' Committee for the East is the fact that the local are getting new timber into their conferences.

Big Drive Gains Momentum.

Cities which have joined in the German drive are Philadelphia, Boston, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, Flint, Mich., Grand Rapids, New Haven, New York, Milwaukee, Superior, Spokane, Seattle, San Francisco, and Washington, D. C.

The drive has gained momentum and the national office is receiving letters with remittances at the rate of about 100 dollars a week. The Russian famine relief organization collected $200,000 in cash and about $250,000 worth of food, clothing and medicine. It is expected that much more will be collected for the German workers.

An interesting item is the fact that Local No. 419, Carpenters' Union, of Chicago, was the first to make a contribution to the German drive. They sent $50 to the National Office. In addition to this sum, the Carpenters' Union of Chicago, Ill., has already about $25 to be turned over, in addition to the sum, to the Russian famine relief organization. At each meeting a collection is taken for the German workers. As soon as they will have a large enough sum they will send their check.

Huge Profits Total at Least 17 Billions

By Leland Olds
(Federal Reserve Industrial Editor)

(First article of a series)

Millions are being made out of the coat of the war by Melloy's scheme for reducing the taxes of the rich is put over.

At least $17,000,000,000 have been held undistributed awaiting this scheme, which would reduce the tax on profits to 10 percent.

Corporate income between 1913 and 1923, according to a careful study of the tax returns by the National Bureau of Economic Research, averaged $17,000,000,000.

The major part of this was war profits resulting from the war, which would be reduced to 10 percent.
