40 STRIKERS FACING PICKET CHARGE, FREE

Mass Arrests At Lowenthal
Plant Prove Dud

More than forty garment strikers, charged with disorderly conduct, were discharged when they appeared before Judge Samuel H. Trude yesterday in the S. Clark Street police station.

The strikers all decided to stand trial at once knowing the police did not have a case against them. They had been arrested Wednesday, evening at the C. H. Lowenthal, 224 So. Market St., asked the police to clear the sidewalk of all strikers.

As soon as one group was arrested another group arrived so they were arrested until the police decided that the strikers were numerous enough to keep them working all night.

Kept the Line

Yesterday morning the police officers who had arrested the strikers expressed their opinion that it would be better to let the strikers go. The police had no proof of the strikers because they seemed to be able to fill the line with strikers as soon as one group was arrested.

The copper, who had just the right kind of attitude, girls were arrested and tried to be pleasant and smiling friends. The girls treated them with the utmost courtesy.

That's because of the code: "We are only carrying out orders" was going on the girls a dozen times.

They discussed answering the copper.

The Court Ruled

As soon as the case was called the judge asked if any of the girls were representing against her. "Did this girl do it?" Judge Trude would ask.

"Discharged," snapped the judge. "Out with her."

Some times the cops would vary the process by charging that the girl had lied. The girls would then be discharged.

When the judge asked if it was true and the girls denied it they were discharged.

Court Gets Impatient

Finally Judge Trude grew impatient and told the police not to bring girls into the court if they did not have any evidence.

Four of the girls who were brought all day were asked for jury trials. They all said no. They were then asked if they did not have any evidence.

Judge Trude issued a warrant for the arrest of Samuel H. Fuller, the private slugger for C. H. Lowenthal, the man who had been arrested by the police Liebman the day before. But immediately after this she was hauled into the two police cells and hauled off by the Judge. Dennis had to show who she should not be punished for contempt of court for breaking in spite of Dennis' order not to picket.

Jenny was asked to give her a copy of the injunction. She refused to take it and Fuller gave her the injunction afterwards and apparently convictions.

Sullivan after some abuse said that if he did not behave for suit him "Dennis".

"Dennis still not interested.

Continuing to insist that he had no interest in whether the girls stayed in jail or not he was asked to leave. The Defense Committee, who said that it was a matter of interest to him and that he insisted the girls stay in jail.

At this moment Freda Reicher was brought in on another attachment. She was the one who had been at home at 10:30 last night. She was asked to stay to do some more work that afternoon.

After more yapping by the girls the girls were released. More cases are coming up today.

'DENNIE' INSULTS PETER SISSMAN, STRIKE LAWYER

Bosses' Judge Acts Like Spoilt Baby.

Disigracing the courtroom yesterday afternoon, Judge Sullivan, in a fit of temper, insulted Peter Sissman.

"Dennis' frothing occurred when he presented his defense for the release of Liebman and Lena Moritz who had just been brought into the courtroom to attend proceedings in court of proceedings.

Sullivan first began snarling that the papers were relatively drawn and that the girls could not be released.

Sissman and Associates, with whom he was associated, said the bonds were all right.

"Let Them Stay in Jail."

Sullivan then explained that it was in the interest of the girls that the girls spent the night in the cell or were released on bonds.

Then the judge began shouting. Sullivan then said that he had ruled in an earlier case that the girls could not be released without their own signatures, that he had done so like a baby.

When the judge asked if he was right, Sullivan said that he was.

The court's refusal to recognize the court's ruling by acting in the former case had been for the sake of procedure, he said. The court's action could be taken to a higher court.

He had accepted Sullivan's defense and he would give her a copy of the injunction. She refused to take it and Fuller gave her the injunction in his place. He then took a blow.

PERLESTEIN HAS PLANS FOR LABOR ALDERMAN IN THE CITY COUNCIL

Perlestein said yesterday that he is considering asking Alderman Oscar Nelson and the other members of the city council to join the city council to take the case, if the strikers up with that body soon.

He did not say what plan he had.

"Wait, we are considering that matter. At the proper time we will make our plans public," he said.

His answers to questions indicated that he was well aware that much could be done for the strikers' cause by Nelson and others in sympathy with the strikers in the city council.

(Special to The Daily Worker)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—The Senate Daugherty Committee today refused to let Roxie Sissman name the five men who said yesterday $33,000,000 in a Sissons deal.

Daugherty's spokesman said that the committee had been asked to name the men for the release of Liebman and Lena Moritz who had just been brought into the courtroom to attend proceedings in court of proceedings.

Sullivan first began snarling that the papers were relatively drawn and that the girls could not be released.

PENROSE GOT QUARTER
MILLION; DAUGHERTY,
HAYS GO FOR $25,000

(Special to The Daily Worker)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—Many new dashes of color were given to the Senate oil committee by Al Jennings, who became famous years ago as train robber, his sister turned gangster and politician.

Al Jennings said that part of the $1,000,000 deal was to give the late United States Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania.

To Will H. Hays, former postmaster general, $25,000.

While the republican house and Senate of Pennsylvania were sold at a quarter million, the postmaster general, the attorney general and the attorney general were each given $25,000.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—Indictment of Daugherty, the attorney general, for contempt because of failure to produce records before the Daugherty investigating committee was sought in a motion today by Senator Wheeler, chief prosecutor.

President Coolidge today was requested formally to force the Senate to turn over to the committee investigating Daugherty the Department of Justice in 1921.

This motion was unanimously voted to in an executive session.

A flat refusal by Daugherty to furnish the documents on the ground that they were "of no public interest" caused the committee to "go over his head" to the president.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—The Senate investigating committee charged before the Senate oil committee that the late Jake Hamon was a "public enemy" for secret service work.

Jennings also charged that $20,000, a Republican senator from Pennsylvania, in the same state.

Jennings said he believed, were certain big men from Oklahoma, including Harry Hamon.

He said he got his information from Hamon's friend, Al Jennings.

Hamon was a natural friend to Harding, he said.

He said he held him long before the nomination and that he (Hamon) was the biggest man in the United States.

The deal was finally concluded in a secret session of the Senate before Harding was nominated, Jennings said.

He mentioned the name of Al Jennings. General Daugherty was an oilman.

He said he was present at the pre-convention campaign manager for Harding.

President Coolidge, he said.

Telling of events just prior to the Harding nomination, Jennings said:

"In Hamon's room at the hotel, I told him I wanted to come to Washington. He said he wanted me to come back and run for governor. He said

JOHN L. LEWIS O. K. S. ANDERSON, INJUNCTION JUDGE

Tells Coolidge Author Of 1919 Writ Suited Him

Stated in The Daily Worker.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 27.—The fact that John L. Lewis, international president of the United Garment Workers, has sold his bond out to capitalists, politicians was known today when he told President Coolidge he had no objection to the appointment of Judge L. T. Anderson, of Indianapolis, to the bench of the circuit court of the United States Circuit Court.

Judge Anderson was the author of one of the most vicious injunctions in the history of American labor. His 1919 injunction against the United Mine Workers' Union, restrained the international miners and their branches from using picket lines and picketing in any strike that was then going on or soon about to start.

"Cannot Fight Government." Local garment workers ignored the injunction, which was considered a light until the operators were finally forced to yield them an average increase in their wages. John L. Lewis and his international officials, however, accepted the injunction and laid down the court's order.

"We cannot fight the government," announced Lewis. Even Sammamish at Lewis' cowardice in his crisis.

Vice President.

Lewis' surrender to the Coolidge politicians as regards the appointment of the injunctive judge is interpreted as part of his plan to capture the vice-presidential nomination, as running mate with Coolidge in the fall elections.

Make This Hired Man Get On the Job

ALDERMAN OSCAR NELSON, vice-president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, did not raise his voice for the striking garment workers in the city council on Wednesday afternoon.

Alderman Nelson said that the DAILY WORKER could not make him do it. He declared he was not taking his orders from the DAILY WORKER.

Alderman Nelson said he would get his orders from Mayer Perlstein, vice-president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, in charge of the strike.

It is said there are three kinds of servants.

The efficient servant knows what to do and does it.

One not so efficient has to get his orders and then does it.

The third kind not only waits for his orders but has to be watched while he is carrying them out, otherwise he would fail to do what he has been told to do.

Oscar Nelson is some kind of a servant of the working class. Otherwise he has no business in the labor movement.

We believe that the workers are finding out just how Oscar Nelson is, or is not, serving the workers in this strike.

Oscar Nelson was a good servant of the workers, he would have told them to strike, and laid down the strike. He would have gotten busy, instinctively, the first day the strike started. But Oscar Nelson did not do that. So he is not the first kind of servant.

If Oscar Nelson were the second kind of servant of the working class, he would have gotten busy in the city council at the first suggestion, no matter what the source from which it came. But he is even a bad second kind of servant.

He is not only balky at the DAILY WORKER's suggestion. He even resents them.

Oscar Nelson thus shows himself the third, or worst kind of servant the workers could have in the city council. He would be kicked into doing anything, and he must be watched while he is doing it.

Oscar Nelson, an attorney, is employed by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. He is under the direction of Mayer Perlstein in charge of the strike. Perlstein is his boss. Oscar Nelson can make him get on the job for the strikers in the city council. At least Alderman Nelson says he will take Perlstein's orders.

Perlstein's duty is clear.

Let him give the strikers orders to put up a fight for the strikers in the city council.

Let Perlstein get around to the city council and see that Oscar Nelson carries out the orders given him.

Make this hired man, Oscar Nelson, get on the job.

Striking Miners of West Virginia Need Clothing and Food

Special to The Daily Worker.

WARREN, Ohio, March 27.—The city central committee of the Workers Party had a letter from the United Workers of West Virginia appealing for shoes, clothing and canned goods. They have been told that the miners will be here soon and that help would be welcome there as soon as possible.

Most persons answers this appeal and gives what they can, when you know what it means to them. The different branches of the miners are trying to help and do their best in this case, and I hope others will try and help those in need.

Most of you know what it means to stand in a strike and fight for your rights, and help those in need. And what it means to receive help when all hope is almost gone. This little help will go a long way to help the miners ability to continue their fight to a victorious end. So once more—do your bit to help these comrades to win this fight.

May God bless you all.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN, Mar. 27.—Hiram Johnson is forging ahead of Coolidge, the president, and the republican state delegation to the national convention in Cleveland. The Johnson returns from 1,469 out of 1,522 districts, and is leading the race to the leading Coolidge by the narrow margin of 298 votes, 36,885 for Coolidge and 36,587 for Johnson.

The Johnson supporters are claiming the Johnson campaign is carrying on distinctly hostile to Coolidge, the president, and the further rural counties of the state where the farmers are disgruntled with the Coolidge government and seeking to give vent to their dissatisfaction in every possible way.

Already the Coolidge supporters are preparing to do their best to repel away the impending likely defeat.

Bacon Slump, the president's popularity is still high, but his popularity among the rank and file of the Johnson supporters is declining.
